USDA Lists Plants Slaughtering Animals Humanely:

The U. S. Department of Agriculture today issued a list of meat plants under Federal inspection which slaughter animals by humane methods.

The Humane Slaughter Act, 12 years old this month, requires meat packers who sell to Federal agencies to slaughter animals in their plants humanely. Officials of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service said humane methods called for by the Act prevent needless suffering of animals at the time of slaughter, promote safer and better working conditions for plant employees, and save money in slaughtering operations.

Many meat plants other than those which sell to Federal agencies use humane slaughter methods.

The complete list of plants is published in the Federal Register twice each year and is updated monthly.

The newest list was published in the Aug. 12 Federal Register. Copies may be obtained from the Consumer Protection Programs Services Staff, Consumer and Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Federal Meat Inspection Suspended at Chicago Plant:

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced today that Federal meat inspection has been suspended at Cook County Provision, Inc., 1310 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill., effective August 10.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service said that sanitation and facilities in the plant did not meet Federal requirements.

Officials said the plant is not entitled to process meat or meat products for interstate shipment, or to use the Federal inspection mark while the suspension is in effect. Illinois State officials were advised of the Federal suspension and indicated they will cooperate fully with Federal authorities.

Inspection service was suspended at the Cook County plant under provisions of the Federal Meat Inspection Act and the regulations issued under it. They require that all meat and meat products shipped in interstate or foreign commerce be inspected before and after slaughter, and that plants and facilities be operated under sanitary conditions.

USDA Acts on Indiana Meat Plant Endangering Public Health:

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced today that Valentine Packing Co., Terre Haute, Ind., doing business wholly within the State, has been made subject to provisions of the Federal Meat Inspection Act, because the firm was producing meat products under sanitation conditions clearly endangering the public health.

All products of the plant are being detained, officials said, and the plant is not entitled to operate under the Federal Meat Inspection Act until it is capable of producing a safe, clean, and wholesome product.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service explained that the action was taken under the Wholesome Meat Act (amending the Federal Meat Inspection Act) which authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to make any plant subject to the Federal Meat Inspection Act, if the plant's operations are endangering the public health, and if State authorities fail to take corrective action.

C&MS said that serious sanitation deficiencies were identified in the Valentine plant during a July 21 survey by Federal and State inspectors. The Governor was notified in accordance with Wholesome Meat Act requirements, and the plant management was given 10 days to submit written arguments or request an oral hearing.

Officials said an August 7 resurvey of the plant showed that proper corrective action had not been taken. The plant was then made subject to Federal inspection and all products were detained, C&MS said.

HUMANELY SLAUGHTERED LIVESTOCK

Identification of Carcasses; List of Establishments

Pursuant to section 4 of the Act of August 27, 1958 (7 U.S.C. 1904), and the statement of policy thereunder in 9 CFR 381.1, the following table lists the establishments operated under Federal inspection pursuant to the Federal Meat Inspection Act (21 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) which were officially reported on July 1, 1970, as humanely slaughtering and handling on that date the species of livestock respectively designated for such establishments in the table. Additions to and deletions from this list will be made from time to time as the facts may warrant, by notices published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The establishment's number given with the name of the establishment is branded on each carcass of livestock inspected at that establishment. The table should not be understood to indicate that all species of livestock slaughtered at a listed establishment are slaughtered and handled by humane methods unless all species are listed for that establishment in the table. Nor should the table be understood to indicate that the affiliates of any listed establishments use only humane methods.

[F.R. Doc. 70-10505; Filed, Aug. 12, 1970; 8:49 a.m.]

ACTION BY: All Laboratory Employees
Technical Services Division

INFORMATION FOR: Food Inspectors; Officers in Charge, Consumer Protection Programs; Regional Directors; Processed Food Inspection Division; Slaughter Inspection Division; Compliance and Evaluation Staff

Integrity of Samples

Each sample received at a laboratory for analysis must be examined upon receipt at the laboratory to ascertain that its condition is acceptable to insure reliable analytical results. Those received in an unsatisfactory condition are not analyzed. The sender must be notified promptly when a sample cannot be analyzed.

Examples of conditions that frequently make samples unsuitable for analysis are as follows:

A Chemistry

- 1 For fat, added water or added substance in meats.
 - a Exposure to air through rupture of immediate container.
 - b Leakage of container.
 - c Putrid.
 - d Inadequate size sample (less than 3/4 lbs.).
 - e Absorbent material in contact with sample.

(A)

- 2 Spices and seasonings.
 - a Inadequate sample (less than two oz.).
 - b Lack of proper identification.

B Microbiology

- 1 For bacteriological counts and sanitary indicators.
 - a Non-shelf-stable product received thawed.
 - b Product exposed to contamination. Unbagged, broken bags, leaking samples, etc.
- 2 For antibiotic residues.
 - a Samples received thawed.
 - b Broken bag (tissue may have contacted surfaces that would contaminate with antibacterial agent).
- 3 For serology - Putrid.
- 4 For diagnostic microbiology.
 - a Samples received thawed.
 - b More than one tissue per bag.
 - c Exposed tissues.

C Pathology

- 1 Putrid
- 2 Frozen after fixation. (Samples for pathology may be of some limited diagnostic value and should be examined when tissues were:
 - a Received unfixed, but with minimal post-mortem autolytic change, or
 - b Prepared with an insufficient volume of fixative, or
 - c Sliced too thickly for complete penetration of fixative, or d Frozen prior to fixation, but thawed for placement into fixative).

The laboratory will return the sample report form to the inspector with a copy to the Regional office with the following information:

A The condition of the sample as received and the reason why it could not be analyzed.

B Appropriate suggestions for improvement of resampling and shipping techniques.

State Inspected Plants Eligible to Bid on Contracts Offered by Government Agencies

The attached is an updated listing of State inspected plants identified as having been certified by the Consumer Protection Programs as being "at least equal to" Federal meat inspection requirements and standards. Therefore, these plants are eligible to bid on contracts offered by those government agencies which have agreed to purchase meat products from such sources--namely Veteran's Administration and the U. S. Army.

This listing will periodically be updated as changes occur.

This notice supersedes CP Notice 40.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND DIRECTIVES
FOR POULTRY FOOD PRODUCTS INSPECTORS

PROCESSING INSPECTION

Responsibilities

The official obligations of an inspector assigned to a "further processing" plant are similar to those of inspectors stationed in slaughtering, dressing and eviscerating plants, although his duties may in some instances be carried out under intermittent supervision. Usually he has independent responsibility for supervising or performing the complete range of inspection activities related to further processing poultry operations as well as plant facilities involved. The manufacture of all poultry products prepared under the inspector's supervision must comply with the applicable regulations and the Poultry Products Inspection Act. The inspector also has the responsibility for dealing directly with authoritative officials of the plant's management to achieve objectives.

Sections 81.95, 81.100, 81.101, 81.104, as well as 81.125 of the regulations deal specifically with further processing operations, and supplementary information is provided in the following sections of the Handbook as guidelines to assist inspectors stationed at processing plants in satisfactorily fulfilling their obligations.

Scope of Inspection

*-A. EXTENT OF PROCESSED FOOD INSPECTION SUPERVISION

This part defines the level of inspection coverage required for various Processed Food Inspection activities in official establishments. All processing operations require inspection. The Processed Food Inspection Division will determine the degree of coverage a processing activity requires. The establishment will continue to have the responsibility of informing our inspection personnel in advance when and what processing activities will occur as well as the volume and approximate production hours. It will be recognized that inspection supervision can be defined as:

1. Minimal Supervision - coverage calling for unannounced visits to official establishment(s) and/or departments during the designated production activity. One thorough surveillance approximately every 2 weeks should be made for each activity so designated.
2. Limited Supervision - coverage calling for unannounced visits to official establishments and/or departments during the designated production activity. This may also include broad coverage of many establishments by one inspector in large metropolitan areas. Twice a week surveillance should be sufficient to assure compliance for each activity so designated.
3. Normal Supervision - coverage called for by operations that may be conducted only when an inspector is on duty. The inspector's assignment may include a department of a large establishment, or one or more establishments.

Minimal and limited supervision will normally be performed by the inspector assigned. Periodically, however, supervisors may wish to perform "odd hour" inspections in addition to minimal and/or limited supervision.

The intensity of inspection for activities requiring minimal or limited supervision would be consistent with the inspectional coverage given similar operations on a normal basic assignment.

Minimal and limited coverage should be designed to assure that the permitted processing operations are being conducted in accordance with all existing regulations, standards and instructions. No guidelines other than frequency are suggested for the minimal or limited coverage categories. These visits should be scheduled so that no definite inspection pattern is established. When conditions warrant, the Regional Office may give approval for normal coverage. New processing operations or procedures that are suspected of producing product not in compliance may be examples of activities temporarily qualifying for such permission.

B. SCOPE OF OPERATIONS COVERED

1. Operations permitted under minimal supervision as defined above will be:

- a. Packing properly marked poultry products into shipping containers bearing marks of inspection and shipping of such items.
- b. Retorting of canned products providing the inspector has observed the placing of cans in retorts and knows that proper steam pressure has been applied and canned product is available for inspection the following day.
- c. Labeling canned products when cans are properly coded and the labeled cans are available.

2. Limited supervision.

- a. Labeling or packaging poultry or poultry products provided:
 - (1) the product is distinguishable by appearance from all other types of product in the plant.
 - (2) the product is presented for inspection before labeling in a manner acceptable to the Officer in Charge.
 - (3) the labeled and packaged items are identified and available to the inspector before shipping.
- b. Slicing poultry products provided:

- (1) the operation is designated as a limited operation in terms of production or establishment employees by the Officer in Charge.
- (2) the product is distinguishable from all other types of products in the establishment.
- (3) the product is available for inspection before slicing.
- (4) the sliced, labeled and packaged products are identified and available for inspection before shipping.

c. Poultry cutup operations provided:

- (1) the carcasses are presented for inspection prior to cutting in a manner acceptable to the Officer in Charge.
- (2) operative sanitation acceptable to the Officer in Charge is maintained by the establishment.
- (3) product is available for reinspection.

d. Cooking, roasting of poultry provided past plant history indicates temperatures continually exceed requirements and label restrictions are not determined by cooking or heating requirements; i.e., Turkey Rolls.

- (1) The following types of products are included.
 - (a) whole carcass chickens and turkeys.
 - (b) water and steam cooked poultry parts.
- (2) It will be an establishment responsibility to designate an employee to:
 - (a) maintain a file of all temperature records or recording charts identified by date and product and number of pieces.
 - (b) keep inspectors informed in advance of product to be cooked and/or smoked.
 - (c) have a representative portion of finished product available for reinspection.
 - (d) present product or raw materials for inspection in a manner acceptable to the Officer in Charge.
- (3) It will be the inspector's responsibility to:

- (a) spot check (limited inspection) processing times and temperatures; general procedures and operative sanitation.
- (b) assure compliance by examining the physical characteristics of the finished product to verify adequate processing.

e. Preoperative sanitation inspection in processing areas. It will be an establishment's responsibility to assume full responsibility for an adequate establishment sanitation program.

- (1) More specifically the establishment will:
 - (a) perform regular preoperative sanitation inspections.
 - (b) allow operations to begin only when all applicable requirements for sanitation have been attained.
- (2) It will be an inspector's responsibility to:
 - (a) spot check areas and/or equipment once or twice a week.
 - (b) withhold inspection when acceptable standards have not been attained and notify supervisor immediately.
 - (c) allow operations to start only when reinspection by spot checking shows correction of deficiencies.
- (3) It will be a supervisory responsibility to:
 - (a) insure responsibilities of both establishment and inspector are performed.
 - (b) allow new establishments more frequent coverage until a satisfactory preoperative sanitation history is established.

3. All other activities not identified in this section will continue to receive "Normal" supervision as defined in A3 of this section.

C. REVIEWS AND CANCELLATIONS OF PRIVILEGE

When unsanitary conditions or improper procedures are observed during a minimum or limited supervision, the following action will be taken:

1. Withhold inspection.
2. Immediate action will be taken to correct the deficiency.

3. A report of the findings will be forwarded through the Officer in Charge to the Regional Office. These reports will be kept on file and become the evidence for possible suspension of inspection.-*

REINSPECTION OF POULTRY PRODUCTS
(Sections 81.7 and 81.95)

Only poultry and poultry products processed in official slaughtering and eviscerating plants operating pursuant to the Poultry Products Inspection Act and bearing the official mark of inspection or other official identification may be received in further processing plants for utilization in manufacture of poultry products. Upon entering the official plant they shall be reinspected to assure that they are properly labeled, sound and wholesome.

Condemnations that occur prior to or during cutting up or further processing shall be reported on Form PY-536 "Monthly Report of Inspected Poultry." Condemnations that occur after the cutting up or further processing is completed, such as while in storage at the official plants are not part of the inspection while processing and should not be reported on Form PY-536. This data should be reported under "Remarks" on Form PY-536 as, for example, "20 cases canned-boned chicken condemned."

Deboned poultry products frozen in raw or cooked condition are satisfactory for further processing. The inspector is responsible for seeing that such product contains no bone; that the skin and fat do not exceed natural proportions; and light and dark meat is present in approximately natural proportions or conforms to proportions indicated on the label. Prior to use, such products are thawed, reinspected for wholesomeness, and verified that the product corresponds to the name of product on the label.

Reports indicate that certain mechanical processes for recovering meat fragments from cooked poultry bones are resulting in a final meat product which is contaminated with fine bone particles. The problem arises from mechanically reducing the bones to a size that precludes a visual identification and separation of the bone from the meat.

All boning operations must be conducted in a manner that assures the removal of all visible bone. The use of laboratory procedures in lieu of complete visual inspection to assure freedom from bone is not practical.

Poultry found to contain bone particles of any size is not bone free and, therefore, cannot be considered a wholesome, unadulterated poultry product.

Partially processed poultry products in combination and with such materials as broth, giblets, salt, flour, etc., are satisfactory for further processing in the manufacture of finished products. Prior to their use the inspector must be assured that the formula for the finished poultry product indicates the use of the partially processed product.

Poultry fat shall be sound (show no indication of incipient rancidity, nor an offensive odor, grey-yellow or other off-color). Usually an organoleptic test made by the inspector is sufficient for determining soundness of fat. When poultry fat, either rendered or unrendered is received in a frozen state, the frozen block should be cut or broken to insure soundness throughout.
